

Persona 1 — Ela K. | The Overwhelmed Senior | Architecture, 4th Year

Service Blueprint — General Semester Experience

	Semester Start	Mid Semester	Deadline Week	Jury / Critique	Post-Jury Recovery
FRONTSTAGE — WHAT THE STUDENT DOES & FEELS
Actions & activities Observable behaviour	Attends studio intro. Reviews brief. Buys initial materials. Sets rough personal timeline.	Develops concept. Attends mid-reviews. Tracks expenses. Starts scholarship application.	Pulls multiple all-nighters. Produces final models, drawings, and renders. Skips meals.	Presents to jury panel. Defends decisions verbally. Receives in-person feedback.	Tries to rest. Avoids studio. Slowly processes feedback. Reluctantly plans next term.
Thoughts Internal monologue	"I hope I understand what they want this time."	"Am I on the right track? Money is tight."	"I can sleep after the deadline. Is this good enough?"	"Please tell me clearly what works. I'm too tired to defend this."	"I feel empty. I can't do this again next semester."
Emotional state Mood & physical	Cautiously hopeful ●●●○○	Stressed & worried ●●○○○	Overwhelmed, unwell ●○○○○	Tense → numb ●○○○○	Drained, demotivated ●●○○○

BACKSTAGE — WHAT SUPPORTS THE EXPERIENCE
Frontstage actors Visible to student	Studio instructor introduces brief. Coordinator emails schedule. Material store clerks help with purchases.	Instructor gives quick desk crits. Mid-review panel evaluates draft work. Scholarship office responds slowly to email.	Print shop staff handle late-night requests. Lab assistants supervise model-making. Peers share workspace silently.	Jury panel (3–4 instructors) listens and critiques. External jury member adds outside perspective.	Friends and family check in. No formal contact from instructors or counselors. Coordinator announces next term.
Backstage actors Behind the scenes	Curriculum committee writes briefs. Coordinator schedules studios. IT manages portal access.	Faculty meet to align rubrics (often informally). Scholarship office processes applications. Finance manages budgets.	Print shop manages queues. Lab schedules slots. Studio cleaners reset spaces overnight.	Coordinator schedules jury rooms. AV team sets up equipment. Faculty pre-discuss expectations briefly.	Faculty grade in private. Department reviews jury outcomes. No structured wellbeing follow-up exists.
Support processes Systems & infra	Library, IT helpdesk, course coordinator email	Scholarship office, library, peer informal channels	Print shop, lab booking, late-night campus access	AV setup, studio coordinator, jury logistics	(No active support touchpoint — gap)
INSIGHTS — FRICTION & DESIGN SPACE
Pain points Where it breaks	No clear rubric. Materials list comes too late. Cost surprises hit immediately.	Feedback inconsistent across instructors. Scholarship process slow & opaque. Anxiety builds.	Sleep collapses (5–6 nights of <4 hrs). Eats poorly. Heart palpitations. No workload pacing.	Outcome depends on which instructor is in the panel. Verbal feedback is hard to recall later.	No structured debrief. Doesn't know how to improve. Feels isolated and unsupported.
Opportunities (HMW) Design directions	HMW deliver a clear rubric, milestone plan, and material budget on day 1?	HMW standardize mid-review feedback and accelerate scholarship decisions?	HMW redistribute deadlines to prevent crunch and protect basic health?	HMW provide structured, written, growth-oriented jury feedback?	HMW offer a structured post-jury debrief and check-in within 7 days?

Persona 2 — Kaan D. | The Resilient Adapter | Industrial Design, 3rd Year

Service Blueprint — General Semester Experience

FRONTSTAGE — WHAT THE STUDENT DOES & FEELS
Actions & activities Observable behaviour	Attends studio intro. Reads brief carefully. Starts concept early. Plans gym schedule.	Iterates concept. Goes to gym to manage stress. Asks peers for informal feedback.	Works intensively. Cuts gym sessions. Sleep decreases but maintains short exercise breaks.	Presents project. Listens carefully. Adapts pitch based on instructor tone.	Reflects on feedback. Returns to gym & routine. Talks to peers about the experience.
Thoughts Internal monologue	"Let me plan this so I'm not overwhelmed later."	"I'm on track — but I wish feedback was clearer."	"I just need to get through this week."	"How this goes depends on who's in the jury."	"That went okay. Energized if feedback was good."
Emotional state Mood & physical	Optimistic, organized ●●●●○	Manageable stress ●●●○○	Stressed but coping ●●○○○	Nervous, context-dep. ●●●○○	Neutral → relieved ●●●●○

Support processes Systems & infra	Library, IT helpdesk, gym membership system	Library quiet zones, peer Discord servers	Print shop, lab booking, gym off-peak access	AV setup, studio coordinator, jury logistics	Gym, peer network (no official channel)
INSIGHTS — FRICTION & DESIGN SPACE
Pain points Where it breaks	No published full-semester deadline calendar. Hard to plan around overlapping courses.	Inconsistent peer & instructor feedback. Limited quiet study spaces during midterms.	Loses physical activity buffer when time collapses. Sleep drops noticeably.	Outcome depends entirely on jury composition. Feedback quality is unpredictable.	No formal debrief. Support services feel too formal & time-consuming for short check-ins.
Opportunities (HMW) Design directions	HMW publish a full semester deadline calendar from week 1?	HMW provide dedicated quiet focus zones for deep work on campus?	HMW help students preserve physical routines during high-pressure weeks?	HMW make jury feedback structured and consistent regardless of panel?	HMW offer 15–20 min low-barrier drop-in counseling that fits busy schedules?
